IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES AT TEMPLE

Order of De Molay Installs Officers Before Big Audience

YOUNG MASONIC UNIT

Ira L. Vance Conducts Services of Installation Which Starts Organization

By FRANCIS REED

Impressive indeed were the ceremonies that marked the installation of officers of Glendale chapter, Order of De Molay, held last night at the Masonic Temple. Deep was the feeling aroused in the spectators for the teachings and practice of the order. If there were any present who had held the slightest doubt concerning the purposes for which De Molay is striving, all misgivings were dispelled before the ceremony was far advanced.

The lodge room of the temple was filled to capacity. Even the aisles were crowded with spectators anxious to witness the institution of the new order. As a short prelude, Mrs. Blanche V. Holliday played a beautiful organ number, after which she swung into the opening strains of the processional. At the first note, the line of twenty-three officers, clad in robes symbolic of their stations, filed into the room, taking their places in the triangle about the altar. Between the officers and the altar stood the seven candles set in tall candlesticks, representing the seven cardinal virtues of the order. On the platform in front of the room were stationed the members of the advisory council.

"Friends, on behalf of the Glendale chapter, Order of De Molay, we welcome you to this ceremony of installation." These words, spoken by Ira L. Vance, chairman of the advisory council and installing officer, opened the ceremony. After a short address, he called on Rev. Calderwood, acting senior councilor, to place the Holy Bible upon the altar. Percy Priaulx, acting junior councilor, conveyed the flag of the country to the altar, while the Star Spangled Banner was played. Following the opening ceremonies, Miss Gladys White rendered two beautiful vocal selections.

Mattison B. Jones, acting orator, read the story of the martyrdom of Jacques De Molay under Philip the Fair and Clement the Fifth, which is the historical foundation of the order. Joseph S. Thompson, marshal, then read the names of the officers, and presented them for installation, investing them with their jewels of office, and conducting them to their respective stations. In the midst of the ceremony, the audience stood with bowed heads while the chaplain offered up a prayer for the wards of the Masonic home. This 9 p. m. interpolation is a feature of every De Molay meeting.

When the installation was completed, Mr. Pla gave two delightful vocal solos, responding to the applause with La Paloma, sung by the special request of Mr. Jones. Mr. Charles Peckham, on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Phillips, presented the chapter with the candlesticks, preceptors, stands and cloths. Dwight Stephenson, on behalf of the Blue lodge, presented the officers with their jewels of office. W. W. Worley presented on behalf of the Commandery the beautiful silk flag, while Mr. Vance gave the Holy Bible. Mattison B. Jones, in an eloquent talk, accepted the gifts on behalf of the chapter.

Warren Captures the Quackless Duck as Head Swapper

The holeless doughnut, the tin plated dime, the quackless duck and the squealless pig, all go to Warren, 300½ South Brand boulevard, Glendale's most popular swapper. Usually Warren's a grouch, but today he's smiling—and there's a reason. Yesterday he closed two swaps, both of them resulting from ads in the Glendale Press' Swap Column. The first was a $2,100 trust deed on a $4,800 bungalow—Thorneley to Smith. The other was a $2,800 lot on Colorado on a $5,000 lot—Peters to Sanford. That's bumping 'em off, Pete says.

Another applicant for the swap club is the firm of Walker & Rathburn, 100 East Colorado. They have five acres of cherries they want to swap for Eagle Rock property.

Bear Brothers of 209 West Broadway filed application for membership in the Swappers' Club by offering an apple grove in Yucaipa Valley.

Newcomers to the Press Swap Club are:

W. A. Heitman, 1736 South Fernando Road.

J. F. Riggs, 209 West Broadway.

Glendale Phonograph company, 126 South Brand boulevard.

Advance Realty company, 310 East Broadway.

G. A. Smart, 204 East Broadway.

Brenkman Electric company, South San Fernando.

BONUS LINE WORK TO START WITHIN FOUR MONTHS

P. L. Hatch Confirms Assurances of Glendale-Montrose Extension

Confirming assurances in regard to the certainty of the proposed extension of the Glendale-Montrose line to connect with the yellow car line, P. L. Hatch, superintendent, when interviewed this week said that when the officials of the Union Pacific and the Glendale-Montrose had agreed it was time to start actual proceedings within four months of that date the cars should be running; that length of time would be required for the actual construction work. He is confident that between now and the first of January the order to start will have been given and by April or May the line should be in operation.

There will be no delay on account of franchises from Los Angeles and Glendale, he says, because they will be the mere technical amendment of existing franchises from a steam passenger and freight railway to an electric one.

Construction work will include the installing of a new power house of sufficient capacity to cover the old system and the new extension. According to Mr. Hatch it should be placed near "the center of the load," and the company would like to locate it not far from Glendale and Broadway. The plans call for the purchase of a site and an investment for the plant of $40,000.

The superintendent is confident the traffic will warrant the service promised, viz., every 20 minutes during the rush hours from 6 to 8 a. m., and 4:30 to 7 p. m., with half hour service between them, and he intimated it may be even better. He figures there will be big developments in Verdugo Woodlands and the Sparr Heights Tract which will bring many new patrons to the line.

FLOOD CONTROL MEETING HELD IN CANYON

City and County Engineers Confer at Woodlands

A conference on the matter of providing better storm water protection for the Verdugo wash in the region of Verdugo Woodlands, where the water did considerable damage last winter, is being held in the canyon today. Those who are considering this matter are J. W. Reagan, county flood control engineer, Supervisor Henry W. Wright, City Manager Reeves, City Engineer Dupuy and members of the Glendale city council.

It is the contention of the city management that at least some of the money that is paid by the people of Glendale for flood control work should be spent right here in Glendale. In the past other sections of the county have been taken care of, but Glendale has received little attention. It is with the hope of securing a little aid that this conference is being held.

The county officials arrived in Glendale at 10 o'clock this morning, and it is possible that the greater part of the day will be given over to considering this question. The party will go up into the canyon and all hands will get the facts first-handed.

ANNEXATION PLEDGE IS L. A. MIRAGE

Vague, Indefinite, Unstable, with Only Assurance that Glendale Must Pay

BUILD OWN SEWER

Minus Signature, It Is Filled with "Probable," "Belief" and "Presume"

By THOMAS D. WATSON

A reply to the questionnaire submitted to the Los Angeles city council by those in favor of annexation is given elsewhere in today's paper. While this report does not bear any signature, I am told by O. M. Newby, who submitted the report to us, that it was "ok'd" by the finance committee of the Los Angeles city council and is to be presented to that council for official action.

It is my opinion that this report is one of the strongest arguments for opposing annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles. To begin with, it is full of evasion and camouflage. There is not one direct answer or promise.

The first question asked was in regard to the disposal of sewage, and it begins by telling us that IT IS BELIEVED that by reason of our location it will ultimately require that our system be connected with theirs. Ultimately may mean a term of years. The real joker in this is the statement that we as a district would have to pay for the laterals and internal interceptors through the medium of bonds of our local bond district. In other words, that we would pay for everything that we received, paying for our local laterals through a local bond issue, and paying for the outfall by assuming our part of the Los Angeles taxes.

The second question, regarding water, is covered in practically the same manner, telling us that if we desired we could bond ourselves and make the supposed improvement. In the statement it admits that is problematical, saying that our present supply would undoubtedly have to be employed until some indefinite time.

In the third question, which relates to the telephone tolls, it shifts the responsibility over to the state railroad commission. Is there any reason to suppose that the state railroad commission would favor us as an outlying district of Los Angeles any more than they would as we are now?

The fourth question covered the rates on gas, water and electricity. As regards the gas rate it tells us that the state railroad commission has control of this, and the answer to the third question also covers this one.

As to water and electricity, it tells us that undoubtedly we would have the same rate as the rest of Los Angeles. In the case of Glendale, this would make our cost higher, as our present rates in the majority of cases are lower than those in Los Angeles city.

Question five, regarding carfare, it tells us this is under the jurisdiction of the state railroad commission. Our answer to question three covers this subject.

Question six, regarding branch offices for the public utilities, it tells us it would be planned to provide these conveniences, but if they are similar to those now established, in some San Fernando valley towns we know of, they would, without doubt, prove more of an inconvenience.

In question seven, regarding the borough system of government, it answers by saying that the present charter of Los Angeles does not provide for the borough system.

Question eight covers police protection. The answer tries to cover the fire protection problem. It advises that these two problems would be based on the same ratio as employed in other districts, giving us an example, that of police in Hollywood which has nineteen officers. In Glendale we now have on our force twenty-eight officers. Any Glendalian will admit this number is no more than is needed to take care of the present situation. With the added "attractions" which would undoubtedly open up in Glendale should we be annexed, the number, in order to cover the situation, much be more. But will Los Angeles realize that?

To question nine it says that it has no definite policy as regards the development of parks and playgrounds. We can rest assured that this situation would not be any better than it is at present.

In question ten, it tells us that provision had already been made for the extension of Colorado boulevard to Griffith park, so this means that we will have this improvement regardless of whether we annex or not.

Question eleven regards occupational tax, into which it has not gone into detail, and which it is probably well that they did not, because Glendale citizens will probably remember that a short time past the "city fathers" endeavored to place a tax on the business houses of Glendale in order to take care of the budget, but were unable to do so, the business houses raising too much objection to it. In order to take care of this the 35 cent meter tax was provided for.

Question twelve "covers" a temporary sewer facility for the business district of Glendale. This it treats in a similar way to question one, telling us that if we provide the laterals through a bond election in our district, that, providing their present outfall can take care of us, we will be given the connection. From what I can learn the present outfall sewer, along with the additions they are now building, does not take care of the needs of Los Angeles city, which makes it very indefinite as to when they would allow us to make this connection.

Those in favor of annexation seem to gain a lot of satisfaction from the last paragraph of the report, which says that upon consolidation the Glendale school system would become a part of the Los Angeles school district, and the latter would assume our bonded school indebtedness.

But, would this help Glendale any, after we became a part of the Los Angeles district? We would then have to pay not alone for our bonded indebtedness as we do now, but our pro rata of the bonded indebtedness of the entire system of which Glendale would be a part.

In conclusion they tell us that annexation would be conditional on us assuming our pro rata of the pending indebtedness of Los Angeles, including aqueduct, harbor, power, library, outfall sewer and fire bonds, and Glendale's outstanding indebtedness still would have to continue as a liability to our section.

Does this report promise anything to Glendale that we do not now have, or would have if we wanted it without annexation? I do not think so.

'PROBABLY' IS STRONGEST WORD IN ALLEGED UNSIGNED ANNEXATION PLEDGE OF L. A.

The wonderful, unsigned, alleged "ok'd" questionnaire returned, it was said, by the finance committee of the L. A. council, submitted in all seriousness by the Glendale Consolidation club, on the basis of which Glendale is asked to vote for an annexation to Los Angeles election is given below in all the glory of its glittering generalities and "probably," "presumed," "believe" assertions and guesses. None have been left out, so there can be no charge of discrimination.

Glendale Consolidation Club,
Mr. John Everson, Secretary,
Glendale, Calif.

Dear Sir: In reply to the questionnaire submitted to the city council and supplement thereto, dated November 17, we have the honor to reply as follows:

1. What arrangements can be made for the disposal of sewerage?

The city of Los Angeles has recently voted bonds in the amount of twelve million dollars for the purpose of constructing adequate outfall sewer facilities to meet the demands of sanitary drainage for the present city of Los Angeles and such territory which by reason of its location it is believed would ultimately require connection with such system. In the design of the interceptors involved, provision is being made for a capacity sufficient to care for the added demands upon them in the event of connection thereto by the Glendale district.

Asuming the present city of Glendale is to be a part of the city of Los Angeles, it would be necessary for the Glendale district, as in similar cases in the past, to provide its own local system of laterals and its internal interceptors that would be connected with the main outfall system of Los Angeles. Such provision is probably best made through the medium of a local bond district.

2. Would Owens river water be obtained and under what conditions?

Yes. The immediate source of supply to furnish Glendale and territory to the east would be the high level Tujunga reservoir, provision for which was made in the recently authorized bond issue on November 7. This reservoir, it is intended, shall be fed jointly from the high line branch from the aqueduct at the cascades and from the local watershed tributary to the Tujunga.

As in the case of other similar districts of any size, it would be necessary for the district of Glendale to provide the trunk line connection from the reservoir to its territory either alone or jointly with any other territory that now or in the future might require service from the same source.

Such gravity supply would probably thus be turned into the mains in lieu of the present pumped supply, though the latter would, undoubtedly, have to be employed until such time as more economic and abundant source of gravity water would be connected.

The present distributing system of the city would be taken over by the water department of Los Angeles and administered with the balance of the system which it would then become a part of.

3. Can we obtain aid to abrogate the present system of tolls for telephone?

The telephone being a privately owned utility, is amendable to the control of the state railroad commission. There is, therefore, nothing of definite character that we could assure in the way of eliminating the present tolls.

We can, however, assure you that assistance will be given through the legal department of the city of Los Angeles in presenting to the state railroad commission a petition requesting that the objectionable toll system now in vogue in your territory be eliminated. The result of such action on the part of the city of Los Angeles would be problematical but, undoubtedly would, to some extent, at least, tend to relieve the present situation.

4. Can rates be fixed for gas, water and electricity no higher than for Los Angeles?

In reference to gas rates, your attention is called to the fact that, as in the case of telephone rates, this matter is within the jurisdiction of the state railroad commission. There is, therefore, nothing definite that we can advise concerning this matter, except, however, as in the case of the telephone toll situation.

Officials of the city of Los Angeles would deem it their duty upon the request of the citizens of Glendale, in the event of consolidation of Glendale, to present to the state railroad commission through the legal department of the city, the question of discrimination of rates as between that portion of the city embraced within the present boundaries of Glendale and other portions of the city of Los Angeles.

Rates for water and electricity would be the same in all parts of the city.

5. Will we receive aid in obtaining a more equitable rate for car fares?

The matter suggested by your fifth question also is subject to the jurisdiction of the state railroad commission and in the future handling of the rates for carfare the officials of the city of Los Angeles would be guided by the same motives of public duty as in the case of the telephone toll and gas rates and would, upon the request of citizens in the territory of Glendale, make the proper representation to the railroad commission concerning the railroad rate schedule.

6. Will offices be established for the payment of water, electricity, etc.?

Glendale is geographically a well defined unit that calls for local conveniences similar to those provided to other outlying sections of the city. In keeping, therefore, with the policy heretofore, adopted in such cases, it would be the plan of our several departments such as the city clerk, the building department, the police department, etc., to maintain branch offices in the Glendale district.

7. Can any government similar to the borough system be agreed upon? Can you give us a definite plan of it?

We can only reply that the present charter of Los Angeles does not provide for the borough system. The closest approach available at present is through the medium of the municipal bond act under which any given district of the municipality may undertake any venture allowable to the city as a whole.

Beyond this we can only say that the question of borough government or some modification thereof intended to best meet the local needs is a matter constantly under discussion and undoubtedly one that will soon have to be provided.

8. What police protection?

Of the total tax resources of the city, a certain stipulated amount is made available for police protection. This provides for a certain number of police officers that are distributed throughout the municipality in such numbers as to care for what we term, the social hazard.

In keeping with this policy, and, as an indication of the distribution there are at present assigned to the Sawtelle district, twenty officers, to Hollywood district, nineteen officers, and to San Pedro district, 55 officers. Undoubtedly the same ratio would be employed in assignments to Glendale.

In this connection we might also say that the same general policy applies to fire protection utilizing, however, the fire hazard as the basis upon which equipment is distributed.

9. State policy as to development of local parks and playgrounds?

There has been no definite policy in the past other than to maintain such parks now existing and to secure additional ones when possible.

More recently, however, in connection with greater consideration given to new subdivisions and their control and the enlargement of the city planning program direct attention has been given to this subject with the result that several additions have been made to the system of the present city and a consistent policy is now in process of development.

10. Suitable boulevard connection with Griffith Park. Also street car connection by extension of Pacific Electric via Broadway or some other suitable route.

Through co-operation with the officials and citizens of Glendale, the city of Los Angeles has already determined upon the extension of Colorado boulevard as the best direct connection with Griffith Park and our projected Riverside Drive, deeds for which right-of-way through the city of Los Angeles have been secured.

As to that part of your question dealing with street car connections, we can assure you that, in line with the policy now being pursued by the city of Los Angeles itself to secure adequate and proper street car railroad service throughout the outlying districts of the city, that necessary and proper street car service and connections in the Glendale district in the event of consolidation will be urged and every effort made to secure such service.

11. Will you explain briefly the occupational tax?

That in addition to the regular tax rate fixed by the charter of the city of Los Angeles, the charter provides in subdivision 21 of section 2 thereof that the city may license and regulate under general and uniform laws any lawful business or calling. In pursuance of such section, some two years ago, the council of the City of Los Angeles adopted an ordinance commonly known as the "ocupational license" Ordinance, which fixed a license tax on all occupations and businesses in the city of Los Angeles based either on a flat rate or schedule as appeared to the council to be most reasonable, having in mind the character of such business or occupation and the means derived therefrom were primarily used to give a more adequate police and fire protection to the city of Los Angeles.

This ordinance is uniform in its operation and has been sustained by the Superior Court of the State of California.

12. This is your supplemental question concerning temporary sewer facilities for the business section of Glendale.

In answer to your supplemental question concerning temporary sewer facilities for the business district of Glendale, we can assure you that assuming the citizens of Glendale are desirous of having an adequate and proper sewage system at the earliest moment possible that undoubtedly within the period of twelve months after consolidation between Glendale and the City of Los Angeles is accomplished, proper and adequate sewage system connecting the Glendale business district with the Los Angeles sewage system can be constructed, provided proper outfall sewer connections were supplied.

As above stated this would assume practically unanimous support on behalf of this project by the citizens of Glendale in forming a district to be benefitted thereby and by assessment of property therein for the cost of said disposal, which either could be paid immediately or advantage could be taken of the issuance of bonds giving a period of ten years to pay the same.

At this time we desire to call your attention to the well defined policy of the city of Los Angeles that in the event of consolidation with a city of any outside territory, such consolidation is always conditional upon the particular territory assuming its pro rata of the pending indebtedness of the city of Los Angeles for certain bond issues, the results of which would be equally valuable to such territory.

This includes the issues for the aqueduct, harbor, power, library, outfall sewer and the fire bonds issued at the recent election.

The outstanding municipal issues of Glendale would continue as a liability to that section. In connection with the pro rata assumption of indebtedness concerning the aqueduct and power bonds, we desire to call your attention to the fact that at the present time, all of the intefest and sinking funds required for the payment of the outstanding power bonds are now being paid in full by the Bureau of Power and Light from the earnings of that department.

Your attention is further called to the fact that the interest and sinking fund on the outstanding aqueduct bonds, together with all of the interest and sinking fund necessary to pay off the water bonds recently voted, is now being paid by the Bureau of Water Works and Supply from the next year's revenues of that department.

The exceptions to these are outstanding school bonds. Upon consolidation, the Glendale school system would become a part of the Los Angeles school district which latter assumes the bonded indebtedness of the district absorbed.

We would note in passing that in the consideration of the abovementioned bond issues provision is made for same in the tax rate of Los Angeles which was used in comparison with the tax rate of Glendale in the recently submitted statement of taxes and bond issues.

We trust that the above covers adequately the subject matter of your questionnaire.

COUNCIL DAZED BY COMPLIMENT OF HAYSELDEN

It was as though a bomb exploded in the session of the Glendale council, Thursday night when a letter, thanking the council for its help in putting over the Glendale avenue railroad, received from P. J. Hayselden, chairman of the combined railroad committee, was read.

"Do I understand you to say that someone is really patting us on the back?"

"That is a fact," said City Clerk Van Wie.

"We certainly appreciate this communication," said Councilman Kimlin.

ANNEXATIONISTS 'PRESUME' AND 'GUESS'

See Mirage in Unsigned Report of Alleged Committee Said to Be "Ok'd"

A statement purported to have been "ok'd" by the finance committee of the Los Angeles city council, and which it was said would be presented for official signature of the Los Angeles city council at its meeting today, was presented at a meeting of the Glendale Consolidation club, Thursday night in the Wilson Avenue school as the answers to a number of questions presented by the committee of the Glendale Consolidation club in regard to annexation to Los Angeles. This report was the basis for the discussion of the meeting, which resulted in a vote being taken. Of the 300 present members and spectators, 165 favored annexation, 40 opposed it the remaining number refusing to commit themselves and departed.

The meeting was in charge of John Usilton and the report alleged to have been "ok'd" by the Los Angeles finance committee was read by O. M. Newby.

The principal features discussed included those of sewerage disposal, street car and telephone rates. Mr. Usilton states "Los Angeles has not taken any steps in the matter of annexing Glendale, and although treating the Glendale committee courteously, did not seem overly anxious."

John W. Lawson, who said his interest was based upon a business standpoint, said, "If you should locate a sewer farm anywhere in the limits of the city of Glendale you will have trouble. The only practical solution is an outfall sewer through the city of Los Angeles."

Mr. Usilton said "the Los Angeles finance committee will on Friday of this week recommend to the Los Angeles council that immediate steps be taken to construct the sewerage system from the old pigeon farm to the city line of Glendale, thereby serving that community from the foot of Brand boulevard over the tracks to Los Angeles. In the event of annexation this plan, which would be to serve the business district, could be completed within 12 months. They would not connect the entire city of Glendale until the people here petitioned for the same. With the exception of the business and closely settled residential section, I believe the remainder of the city of Glendale can wait for several years."

In regard to the matter of street car fares, Mr. Lawson said: "The Hollywood chamber of commerce backed by the city of Los Angeles, was able to secure a ruling from the state railroad commission setting the fare to Hollywood at 8 cents for the same distance that we are paying 24 cents for in Glendale."

O. M. Newby stated: "We cannot hope to get relief unless through consolidation we get rated as a local service."

C. W. Ingledue raised the question as to whether annexation to Los Angeles would change the railroad commission's attitude in regard to fares. Bert P. Woodard stated that in all its opinions the railroad commission has classified the service not as city service, but as local and interurban service.

He said: "You will find that city lines have nothing to do with fixing the fares."

O. A. Lane, member of the Glendale committee for consolidation, stated that the Los Angeles school tax rate is $1.60 and that of Glendale is $2.18. In this connection, however, those opposing annexation showed the city of Los Angeles does not have anything to do with the school bonds and rates, which is taken care of by county school board.

Frank Booth raised the question as to whether in the event a change in administration in Los Angeles would the promises of the present council be kept.

Mr. Usilton replied, "We presume that any reasonable promises made by a council would be kept by succeeding councils."

In regard to the moral issue involved as regarding pool rooms in the event of annexation, Mr. Lawson and Mr. Newby replied that in Hollywood signatures of 51 percent of property owners of the frontage in the block concerned is required, and then the police commission is not compelled to grant a permit, should the citizens protest the policy.

CITY COUNCIL IS STRONG FOR AIR PORT HERE

The Glendale City Council went on record Thursday night as favoring wholeheartedly the proposition of establishing a municipal aviation field in this city, as favored by practically all of the largest airplane operating and manufacturing concerns in Southern California. The idea is for the city to own and operate this aviation field, the revenue from which, it is claimed, will more than pay all expenses connected therewith.

Communications have been received by City Manager Reeves from several of the larger aircraft organizations in Southern California, stating that if a municipal field is established here, they would be glad to locate their factories in Glendale.

AEROPLANE CRASHES IN GLENDALE

Framework Buckles and Airman Plunges to the Ground with Machine

ESCAPES WITHOUT HURT

Lieut. W. B. Gwin, Pilot of the Navy, Makes Miraculous Escape

A scout plane of the Pacific Aerial fleet of the United States Naval Flying corps was badly damaged at 10:45 o'clock this morning when Lieut. W. B. Gwin, pilot, was endeavoring to effect a landing on Brand's field, in northwest Glendale. While in the act of turning the machine became unmanageable and plunged to the ground. The wheels of the plane sunk deep in the soft earth. On account of the extra strain placed upon it the framework holding the wheels buckled, this causing the front of the plane to ram into the ground. The plane was turned completely over. Only the strong framework of the wings saved the occupants of the car from injury.

There were three planes in the group that was making a practice flight from North Island to San Diego, the idea being to land at Brand field en route. The other two planes were piloted by Lieutenants J. H. Campman and Val Schaeffer. The distance between North Island and Brand field, 125 miles, was covered in one hour and fifteen minutes. Each of the machines carried the pilot and a mechanic.

Shortly after the accident it was announced that a truck will be sent from San Diego and will take the broken plane to the aerial plant at that place.

ANNEXATION IS OPPOSED BY ROTARIANS

Vote Is Unanimous on Resolution of William Howe

At the regular noon-day luncheon of the members of the Glendale Rotary Club held Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium it was unanimously voted, on motion of William Howe, seconded by Harry Webb, that the Rotary Club draft a resolution expressing its disapproval of the annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles.

A communication was read from the Kiwanis Club regarding the Community Christmas tree, requesting the Rotary club to appoint a committee to act with them. The president, Roy L. Kent, appointed C. C. Cooper and Ed Hewitt as members of the committee. A letter was read from Thos. D. Watson, general chairman of the social and physical recreation committee of Glendale Community Service, asking that the Rotary Club enter one or more teams in the Community Service athletic leagues. On motion of Val Hollister, seconded by George B. Karr, the club went on record as unanimously favoring this work.

In the absence of Francis J. W. Henry, the regular song leader, singing was led by Owen Emery. Among the visiting Rotarians were Ben Barnard of Mitchell, South Dakota. The guests included B. R. Montgomery of Riverside, Mr. Thomas of Minneapolis and Charles Elliott, who is connected with the reclamation work for the government and is also teacher of the men's bible class of the Baptist church of Glendale. Mr. Elliott gave a short address. A delicious turkey dinner was served by the management of Glen Inn.

Owing to the absence of George Moyse, editor of Roto-Service, this week's edition was edited by Al Eastman, who was complimented highly by President Roy Kent. On account of next Thursday being Thanksgiving day the next meeting was set for Wednesday.

The following new members were formally welcomed by the president, and each was presented with his membership card: Jack Huntley, Ed. Nisle, Reu Downing and Jim Newton. Art Dibbern of the educational committee, read the Rotary Club Code of Ethics. William Howe requested permission to have 10,000 copies of the Rotary Code of Ethics to give out with his program. This was granted him.

BURN 'EM UP BARNES AT THE GLENDALE THEATER

In his initial feature length starring vehicle, "'Burn 'em Up' Barnes," an exciting automobile racing story that will come to the Glendale theater, opening tonight, Johnny (Torchy) Hines drove one of the most famous racing cars in the east.

The automobile, which was built especially for Ray Howard, the famous speedster, began its career on the eastern tracks and won several grand prizes. Later it was entered in the famous Sheepshead Bay race, where in the course of a trial spin, the gas tank caught fire and the entire body of the machine ruined, the driver and his mechanician having narrow escapes. The automobile was overhauled and rebuilt and entered the big race at Indianapolis, during which it overturned on a curve, breaking Mr. Howard's legs and killing the mechanician.

AT THE UNITED

The United Theatre, Eagle Rock city, has arranged at considerable expense, for the personal appearurday evening, November 25.
ance of Miss Charlotte Stevens, Saturday evening, November 25.

Miss Stevens got her first introduction to studio life through the winning of a popularity contest in Chicago. She will tell briefly her experiences during the contest and since, and how she advanced in just a few months from the ranks of the raw recruits to the position of leading lady in Christie comedies, which position she now holds, playing opposite Bobby Vernon. Miss Stevens' grace and ability as a dancer are well and favorably known and she will present a very pretty Chinese costume dance.

The feature picture announced for Saturday at the United theatre, is "My Old Kentucky Home," said to have a most wholesome and entertaining story of the old south, and to excel in its exciting action and dramatic climaxes. The big thrill of the piece comes in the portrayal of the "Kentucky derby," a horse race that has been transferred to the screen with all the realism, excitement and thrill possible to get into a picture. It is said to be the most exciting race scene yet filmed. By the way, "My Old Kentucky Home" was directed by Ray C. Smallwood, the gentleman who is to make the picture in which the contest winner will appear.

The big cast of "My Old Kentucky Home" is headed by Monte Blue and Julia Swayne Gordon.

CAVANAH SCHOOL OF MUSIC STAFF IS COMPLETE

Well Known Artist Organizes Group of Local Resident Musicians

Howard Edward Cavanah, director of the Sherwood Music School, 214 East Broadway, states that the school is progressing in a very desirable manner and that the faculty is now complete, which fact the school is glad to be able to announce to the public.

Mr. Cavanah is very well known in Glendale, having sung over the Press-Newton radio many times and also having appeared in concerts here. He received the greater part of his musical education in Paris, where he and his wife studied together.

Miss Gertrude Cleophas, one of Glendale's artists, has been secured to head the piano department. She is a student of Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler of Chicago, who is one of the most famous teachers in the United States. Miss Cleophas studied with her for five years. Following that she studied for five years under Leschetizky in Vienna. She has been a soloist with the Berlin Philharmonic and the New York, Chicago and Minneapolis Symphonies.

She has been engaged for next season with the Los Angeles Philharmonic at the Hollywood Bowl. Miss Cleophas will be assisted in her teaching by one of her pupils, Mrs. J. C. Baird, also of Glendale.

The violin department is headed by Julius Kranz, who scarcely needs an introduction in Glendale as he is a very fine artist and musician, as well as a composer. Some of his works have been accepted by eastern publishers. He may form an orchestra in the school later on.

Mrs. Howard Edward Cavanah is head of the voice department. She has studied in America, completing her education in Paris under De Sales and Prad and Loria where she took up the various branches of singing, including operatic work.

The dramatic art work is under the direction of Carter Moore who has also had stage training and has made an extensive study of everything concerning stage craft. He is a thoroughly competent teacher.

Courses in aesthetic dancing will be offered later and Mr. Cavanah is making negotiations for teaching of all band instruments.

A male quartet has been organized among the boys of the school and from time to time there will be recitals given for the pupils in order that they may acquire the necessary ease and poise required to appear correctly in public.

Plans are under way for a recital to be given in December by the entire faculty of the school to which the residents of Glendale will be invited in order that they may be introduced to the public.

PICKLED NASTURTIUM SEEDS

Use the green seeds, retaining a short length of stem on each seed. Make a brine, using one cup of salt to two quarts of water. Place the nasturtium seeds in this brine and leave for two days. Then place in cold water for one day. Drain the seeds well and place in a glass jar, cover with vinegar spiced to taste, heated to the boiling-point, and close the jar tightly.

In a few days the seeds will be ready to use. They are an excellent substitute for capers.

MISS LILA VAN KIRK TO SPEAK AT TUESDAY CLUB

The speaker at the next meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club, November 28, will be Miss Lila Van Kirk, whose theme will be "A Walk Through the Streets of Florence." During the World war Miss Van Kirk was connected with the Italian bureau of information and had exceptional opportunities to become intimately acquainted with her subjects. The slides with which her talk will be illustrated are said to be of great beauty and the program is certain to please.

After an introduction to the legendary history of the beautiful city of Florence, Miss Van Kirk begins her talk upon Renaissance Days at the birth of Cimabue, 1240, the first of the so-called modern school of art, showing his famous Madonna and passing to his illustrious successor and pupil, Giotto, upon whom Ruskin has lavished such ardent praise.

She carries her audience into the historical buildings of the city, through the famous art galleries, weaving at the same time into her talks beautiful legends connected with the lives and works of the artists, producing thereby an atmosphere that makes one forget for the moment that she is not indeed in the midst of the scenes depicted.

The home of the divine poet, Dante, is visited, and his wanderings during his sad exile made a feature of the lecture, while the Florence of his day is made clear to those who wish to visualize the little village that was his universe. Nor is Michael Angelo, that "Man of four souls" forgotten, while his principal works with the history associated with each, is given by Miss Van Kirk.

San Marco and Savonarola, with the saintly monk, Fra Angelico, are followed in their quiet lives or in the great political crisis in which they figured and from the monastery we find ourselves viewing the Tower of Galileo from which he scanned the heavens and brought home to us those truths now accepted by the world.

Omitting none of the great characters who made the Renaissance, Miss Van Kirk introduces the story by which can be traced Columbus to Florence, where the charts were drawn which enabled him to travel that long journey, ending in the discovery of our land, and closes her talk in a walk through the woods of Vallombrosa, overlooking the "City of the Arrio."

THE RED CROSS AND THE CALL OF THE EAST

Bundle Day Is Extended Here to Include Saturday and Sunday

Almost $1,000,000 has been appropriated by the United States government for the great emergency call in the Near East for the Greek and Armenian refugees who have escaped the keen edge of the Turkish sword and a life of misery, shame or dishonor, far worse than death. Great stacks of foodstuffs and clothing have already been shipped. The first vessel carrying relief landed amongst those unfortunates just a few days ago to dispense its blessings far and wide.

Because of the urgency of the need in those quarters within 48 hours after the distressing situation was cabled to America, the Red Cross and Near East relief working hand in hand, the Brooklyn chapter of the Red Cross reported a consignment of clothing ready for shipment. Thence just as fast as telegrams could fly throughout the nation calls were made upon our generosity to help the unfortunates. The Brooklyn contingent has shipped 150 pairs of shoes, 600 pairs children's stockings, 150 hoods, 700 undervests, 150 sweaters, 75 layettes, 200 men's suits, 75 mufflers, 100 children's dresses and bloomers, and 100 nightgowns. These things were collected by house to house canvassing and appeals. And surely, what the city of Brooklyn can do it is a small thing for rich, influential, humanity-loving Glendale to do and even go them a few better.

Thursday and Friday of this week were the days of appeal to the city to do its bit through the school children, the churches, the lodges, societies, organizations, civic and religious. And Glendale will respond to the best of its ability.

Saturday and Sunday will not be too late to gather bundles and get them to the various depots through the city. Do not forget all the bundles will be gathered early next week and boxed and shipped, because no delay can be allowed in this national call.

Let the wondrous Thanksgiving spirit seize the hearts of the people and rally to this most worthy and urgent appeal.

NO EXCUSES WILL AVAIL AT JUDGMENT

The Man Who Rejects Salvation Now Has No Recourse, Said Rev. Cole

TRUTHS DRIVEN HOME

Children Will Give Great Song Program Tonight in Christian Church Revival

BY O. L. KILBORN

The members of the congregation are very loyal to the revival meetings now being held in the Glendale Central Christian church, attending in large numbers each night, but both pastor and people do not hesitate to say frankly that they are disappointed in the attendance of those to whom they are seeking to bring the greatest gift in all the world—salvation. They do not ask for your money, your social position, your surrender of friends or home, they simply ask you to accept Christ and then to live as He directs. It is not an easy task and the pastor does not say it is. In fact, Rev. Cole has said more than once that the Christian life is the hardest one there is to live, but with the greatest reward imaginable when it comes to a close. And because pastor and people have a burning desire to save souls, they are spending time and money unstintedly, they are offering wonderful programs of song and story, vividly interesting sermons from God's own book. Here is worthwhile entertainment for your every evening and the offer of eternal salvation.

The sermon last night was based on the parable of the marriage feast given by the king for his son (by whom is meant the Christ, whose bride is the church) and the guest who was present without a wedding garment and was speechless when confronted by his angry host. So will be the one who seeks to get into the kingdom by ways not recognized by Jesus. "Many are called but few are chosen," is the closing sentence of this parable and the speaker said: "We offer salvation through Christ to everyone, but how very few are chosen. They will not accept the conditions laid down. Do not offer to man an excuse for staying outside of the church that you cannot give at the judgment bar of God. When that awful day comes you, too, will be speechless."

Tonight the children will give the song service and they have a program that is better than any movie show. They are going to tell you, in song, how they helped to knock out booze and how the walls of Jericho fell down and the walls will fall, too, very realistically. The little folks put their whole souls into everything they do and tonight the church will ring with their melody.

Then at the close of the service that solemnly beautiful rite, the burial of the repentant one in the watery grave, only to rise to walk in newness of life, symbolizing the burial and resurrection of the crucified Christ, will be observed.

Next Sunday is to be an epochal day. A bible school attendance of 400 is promised and unusually large audiences at both preaching services. The subject for Rev. Cole's morning sermon will be "The Question of the Ages," and the evening topic will be "The Least Common Denominator of Protestantism." Surely everyone will want to hear these timely sermons.

SECOND PARTY OF COMMUNITY TONIGHT

Service to Continue Recreation in Main Building of High

Every night is "party night" at the social recreation classes of Community Service. The first regular class, following the general party for adults last Monday, will be held this evening in the gymnasium of the main building of the high school, instead of the girls' gym, as announced. New games, stunts and play songs of all kinds will be given, and the class is open to both men and women without charge. It will commence promptly at 7:30 and be over at 9 o'clock. After tonight there will be but four more classes, on Monday and Friday evenings of next week and the week following.

Engraved certificates will be given to those who do not miss more than one lesson in the course and who help some group with their social programs six times during the year. A number of groups in the city, such as the men's luncheon clubs, churches and P.-T. A.'s are sending special delegates to take the course, in order that their organizations may have the benefit of leaders trained to help in their programs. All groups are invited to send special delegates, but one does not need to be a delegate in order to attend. All that is necessary is a willingness to help others have a good time, and registration at the gymnasium at 7:30 this evening.

XMAS CAROLS TO BE SUNG IN THE CHURCHES

The Christmas carol committee of Community service, of which Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, Mrs. Harry McMullin and Miss E. Brenneman are members, requests that all of the churches of Glendale include in their Sunday song service the following carols: "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" and "Come All Ye Faithful." It is the desire of the committee that all organizations and churches in the city participate in the carol program to be given in connection with the community Christmas tree on Christmas eve.

AIRPORT IS BROUGHT TO EAST SIDERS

Dr. T. C. Young Urges Endorsement of the Project for Glendale

ANNEXATION DISCUSSED

Hotel Project Is Again Discussed with Plans for Advancement

At the Tuesday luncheon of the Glendale Advancement association where covers were laid for forty, members were treated to a review of the situation with regard to the electrifying of the Glendale avenue line, and the proposed hotel on Glendale and Broadway as already reported to the chamber of commerce Tuesday, and published in the Glendale Daily Press. They were also given opportunity to endorse the movement for a municipal air port urged by Dr. T. C. Young, and to hear some expressions relative to the annexation movement by members of the committee appointed to investigate and report.

President Ingledue, Mrs. Mabel Tight and P. J. Hayselden expressed their confidence in the ability of the hotel committee to put the project through on the new lines proposed, Mr. Ingledue voicing his faith in the chamber of commerce directorate when it agreed to wait until the association's committee can determine what it can do, before launching a movement to secure a hotel in any other location. Mr. Kinch insisted there is room for more than one hotel and the initiative of the chamber along this line should not be too long held back by inaction on the part of the advancement committee. In other words it should get busy right away.

Further assurance was given by Mr. Hayselden concerning the electrifying of Glendale avenue. Volunteers to help in the collection of subscriptions were called for and eight members offered their services with promises to begin tomorrow when the lists of subscribers should be furnished them by Mr. Hayselden.

The first speaker of the day was Dr. T. C. Young, who said he wanted to talk about modern transportation. Reviewing the development of Glendale since 1909 when he was the owner of one of the quartette of automobiles which the city then boasted, he said: "There is another mode of transportation that I think is of vast importance—air navigation. A good many cities now have a public or municipal air port or landing field, even small towns in the Imperial valley, but when one approaches Glendale all he can do is to fly over although the air above the city is so favorable, due to the absence of cross currents, that one of the largest airplane manufacturies in the United States is thinking of establishing a factory here. I am especially interested because I have decided to buy a plane and have no place in which to land it. I think we are losing big opportunity by not providing a field which would bring flyers here and I would be glad to see this organization go on record as favoring the establishment of an airport." After some discussion the association voted to endorse a movement to secure such a landing place, preferably a municipal port and that a committee to push the matter be appointed by the president.

A letter from the Kiwanis club setting forth the plan for a municipal Christmas celebration and inviting the Advancement association to participate, was read and the association voted to accept the invitation, instructing the president to appoint a committee of two to cooperate in the matter.

Dr. Stuart was called upon for a report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to investigate and report on the annexation movement and gave a semi-humorous account of his efforts to secure information on the subject by saving files of the Glendale Daily Press and attending the mass meeting at Glendale high where he saw so many members of the association that he considered a report of it unnecessary. He commented on his own unfitness for such a committee because "I am so bitter against annexation and annexationists that I would hang them all for treason or put them on Dr. Young's plane and provide no landing place." At his request Dr. Jessie Russell gave a report of the visit made by herself and committee to the office of the county tax collector.

Mr. Kinch, who was one of the members of the annexation committee and supposed to favor the movement, was called upon for some expression and said he had an open mind; that there were two sides to the question but "when we get all the facts simmered down, I believe we will be in favor of staying as we are."

Dr. Stuart told of Garvanza's woeful experience as a result of joining Los Angeles 25 years ago, and of the ridicule it met when it asked for desired improvements, and said he spoke from experience as a resident there. He also referred to the fight Inglewood had to make to keep out of Los Angeles and of his participation in that fight because of his residence there at the time. He commented likewise on San Pedro's loss of a fine fire engine which Los Angeles transferred to the station at Boyle Heights.

Dr. Stuart also reported on the strenuous but abortive efforts of his committee to get action relative to the widening of Forest avenue, saying that the matter would be held up until a refinite reply could be had from the board of education at its next meeting on the proposition to deed 12 feet from the Cerritos campus for the purpose. If that land cannot be had, he said, it is expected the five-foot parking on either side will be taken into the street, though Harry White, who owns the abutting property on the south, objects. He stated that the Forest Lawn cemetery association had agreed to contribute a certain amount of money which they felt should go to Harry White, because of his increased paving bill, and the doctor and his committee, which included Mr. Ingledue and Mr. Nelson, took the same view.

POOL ROOM LINE FORMS FOR L. A. ANNEXATION

Applications Filed with City Council Pendant on Lifting the Lid

Two applications for permits to operate pool rooms and billiard halls in Glendale, just as soon as this city becomes a part of Los Angeles, if it ever does, were received by the Glendale city council at its meeting Thursday night. Both of these applcants state they understand that the granting of such a permit is contrary to the policies of the present council of Glendale, and each asks that in the event his application is turned down by the present board, the applications be placed on file and handed to the Los Angeles city council, in the event that Glendale decides to "become a little frog in a great big puddle."

From these applications it is very evident that those who would carry on places of this kind, which a very great majority of the residents of Glendale protest against, have their eyes on Glendale. They realize that this city would be a goldmine for their business, no thought being given as to whether or not the morals of the young people of the city would be benefitted or impaired by such institutions.

There is no more harm in pool playing than there is in checker playing or in tennis, providing the game is played under like conditions and under the same environment. Those who favor pool rooms generally bring forth this argument:

"A pool hall is all right if it is run right."

Most assuredly, comes back the reply, but there's the problem—"if it is run right." Not one pool room in a thousand is "run right," for invariably it is a loafing place for bums, a distributing point for booze, and in very many cases a headquarters for criminals. These two applications show conclusively that such places are not only possible, but extremely probable, if Glendale annexes to Los Angeles

Why take a chance?

Following are the two applications received:

"I see by the papers that there are indications of Glendale going into Los Angeles, and if it does, it would be under the Los Angeles rule that permits billiard and pool halls.

"I respectfully make application for a permit to run a pool room in a building which I will erect on the west side of Brand boulevard between Colorado and Harvard streets. I realize that you will be unable to grant a license so long as Glendale is a separate municipality, but when the city goes over to Los Angeles, all property, papers and applications will be turned over to Los Angeles city. As the old saying is "the early bird gets the worm," and my application will be on file and it undoubtedly will be granted when a satisfactory showing can be made.

"Respectfully yours,

"S. A. COOK."

"I have been told by some of the advocates of annexation that Glendale is going to annex to Los Angeles. I know that Los Angeles permits pool and billiard halls and I therefore want to make application to run a pool and billiard hall on East Broadway, the exact number to be given later.

"I have sufficient equipment and will be very glad to pay the license fee demanded of me.

"If your honorable body cannot grant this I will thank you to refer it to the city council when Glendale is turned over to Los Angeles.

"Very truly yours,

"J. H. JONES."

When City Clerk Van Wie announced that there were two applications for permits to operate pool rooms in Glendale a wave of surprise swept over the faces of the council members.

"What's that?" shouted Councilman Lapham.

"They want two pool halls," replied Councilman Kimlin.

"We must deny them," declared Councilman Davis, who was acting as president, pro tem., of the board.

"I should say we will deny them," said "Lap."

After the motion to deny the applications was carried, Councilman Lapham said:

"It would be a good plan to refer this to the ministerial association."

Two songs by Wakefield Cadman, sung by Margaret Messer Morris, with the popular composer at the piano have just arrived at the Nordskog Record Shoppe, Court Shops on East Broadway.—Adv.

Mr. Scribbler had consented to deliver a lecture in the village club on Burns. For weeks the billboards shouted announcements and when the appointed night arrived the hall was full to overflowing.

STAB SIN TO DEATH SAYS DR. DUNLOP AT REVIVAL

HOT SHOTS

"Treat sin like it treats you; stab it to death."

"Sin is as unsatisfied at the end as at the beginning."

"Hell is eternally practicing that sin of yours with no chance for satisfaction."

"There is nothing so black and loathsome as the spirit of revenge."

"Be sure your sin will find you out," said Dr. Dunlop, evangelist, last night at the big meeting at the Tropico Presbyterian church. "Sin is its own detective and God's bloodhounds are on your trail. You can fool some of the people all the time and all the people some of the time, but you can not fool God one minute of the time. 'Be sure your sin will find you out.' Sin claims to be your friend, but always turns out to be your worst enemy. Sin is a traitor like a leopard which first fondles its victim only later to devour it. Treat sin like it treats you; stab it to death."

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dryness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.—Adv.

CLEMENCEAU MAY BE SPEAKER AT PASADENA

Asked to Deliver Address at Rose Bowl Pageant on December 17

PASADENA, Nov. 24.—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau of France, the famous "Tiger," has been invited to deliver the principal address at the patriotic pageant of "Old Glory" in the new Tournament of Roses stadium—"The Rose Bowl"—in Pasadena on the afternoon of December 17. The invitation to the famous Frenchman, now visiting the United States, was dispatched a few days ago by the officials of the city of Pasadena.

If the famous old "Tiger" comes to the big pageant a loud reproducer, such as President Harding used when speaking at the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, will be placed at the speakers' stand so that M. Clemenceau may be heard by all of the 60,000 expected to jam the stadium on that day.

The program includes a living flag made up of 1500 Pasadena High School girls. This flag is to be different from anything yet attempted for by means of a system of intricate steps, the girls will make the flag appear as though "rippling" in a gentle breeze.

The massed bands of Pasadena and Los Angeles Elks will furnish music, making for the day one of the largest musical organizations in America, while the massed drill teams of the two lodges will also go through evolutions.

One of the features of the afternoon will be the dedication of the new 135-foot stadium flagstaff upon which will be hoisted a new American flag 20 by 40 feet in size.

The inspiration for the patriotic occasion came to members of the Pasadena Lions Club on the occasion of the first football game in the new stadium. They remarked the absence of a big flagstaff and at once proceeded to arrange this patriotic program, but a few of the features of which have been mentioned at which a flagstaff could be presented for the great edifice.

INDIVIDUAL TOMATO SALAD

Select as many medium sized, firm, round tomatoes as there are people. Cut at each side about one-third from top of tomato, and form into baskets with handles. Fill with any desired salad, after scooping out most of the pulp of the tomato. Garnish with sprigs of parsley or watercress.

ARE SHAWLS TO COME BACK TO POPULARITY?

Revival of Paisley Patterns and Fringed Capes Suggests Shawls

Will the shawl come back? If it is ever to be restored to even transient favor it would seem to be time now. The revival of the Paisley patterns brings a pang of remembrance to many an observer who remembers some woman near and dear who wore a Paisley shawl. Time was when it was next to the last word in the way of an elegant wrap. With a "Paisley" a woman was fixed for life, unless she aspired to an Indian shawl.

Nevertheless as a wrap the double Paisley, and most of them were double, was an abomination because the heavy pattern was on the edge of a cashmere center so much lighter in texture that the wrap always inclined to slide off. The majority of them had a black center but a rich red was also used. The manufacturer carried his art to a pinacle, however, when he made the silk Paisley of a seemingly heavy silk, but so soft it could almost be crushed through a wedding ring, all the threads of weave and warp coming out in a lovely fringe of pastel colors. The writer has seen but one such shawl and that with an ox-blood center, and its beauty was a thing never to be forgotten. In its last estate it was purchased by an artist for a studio decoration.

Two popular California songs sung by Margaret Messer Morris can now be procured at the Nordskog Record Shoppe. Wakefield Cadman, the composer, at the piano. 211-213 E. Broadway.—Adv.

Odors of Coming Feasts Permeate Glendale High

A woman with very delicate olfactories was once described as "Smellin' things previous." That is what is happening at Glendale High where the girls in Domestic Science are working on a few recipes of things that could properly form a part of the Thanksgiving menu. Some of the girls are also being instructed in serving that they may help efficiently and properly at the Thanksgiving feast.

One of the practice recipes is "Thanksgiving Applecake," a toothsome confection much cheaper and also said to be more digestible than the honest to goodness old fashioned fruit cake. The ingredients as listed by Miss Ellen Hanson, head of the department, include:

One-half cup of butter or butter substitute, one and one-half cups of apple sauce; one cup of sugar, one cup of raisins, two cups of flour, one cup of walnuts, two teaspoonsful of soda, one and one-half teaspoonsful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one teaspoonful of cinnamon.

The how of the making, follows: Cream the butter or butter substitute, gradually add the sugar, add the applesauce. Sift dry ingredients and add to the mixture, then add raisins and nuts. Bake in a loaf pan in a moderate oven one and one-half hours. Slow baking is an important factor. Other fruits may be added such as dates, figs, candied cherries. The mocha icing completes the cake. For this take one cup of powdered sugar, two tablespoonsful of butter, one teaspoonful of cocoa, about two tablespoonsful of cold, strong coffee. Cream the butter, add sugar and cocoa, gradually, beat in the coffee a little at a time until the mixture is smooth and creamy and thick enough to spread.

Under favorable circumstances this cake will keep a long time in perfection, but Miss Hanson complains that the eight apple sauce cakes made for the cafeteria the other day didn't keep at all.

Another thing on which the girls will practice will be cranberry jelly.

MODEL BOY SCOUT MEETING TONIGHT AT CENTRAL

The leaders of the Chamber of Commerce Troop No. 3, Glendale, consisting of Carl H. Kirkman, scoutmaster and Eugene B. Sanders, C. B. Elliott, Frank C. Ayars and George B. Karr, committeemen, will witness a model troop meeting tonight at the Central Avenue School which will be in charge of Rhodes T. Graham, acting field scout executive of the Verdugo Hills District Council.

Mr. Rhodes will demonstrate how an entirely strange group of boys may be organized in but a few moments time and then put over a model boy scout troop meeting.

Following the scout meeting the troop leaders will hold a conference and decide on the future activities of the troop. The troop is growing rapidly, according to Scoutmaster Kirkman. Nearly a dozen boys have been in to see him this week to find out if they could become members.

SEVENTH SENSE MEANS CLOTHES DISTINCTION

Inherent in All Women, But Needs Development

"The seventh sense or the clothes sense," is the theme of Harry Collins in a recent number of "Priscilla," in which he declares: "Every woman and most men are born with this sense in varying degrees, but it requires training and education for development.

"Clothes and their making are not the mysterious science dressmakers and our own doubts would have us believe. The practical details of dressmaking can be mastered by a child. But the fundamentals of dressmaking, its basic artistic principles are inherent in you. Just so far as you have developed your perception of line proportion, your perception and discrimination of color, your selective sense in regard to materials and your comprehension of how they will assemble in your frock when finished, just so far will your dress be thoroughly individual.

"The next time you take a walk on the street, give yourself an object lesson. Analyze the costumes of the women who pass you and decide whether this or that frock, this or that line is the most becoming to the figure on which it is worn. For the sake of self study it is well to always take a figure approximately your own. Then when you reach home seek that reflection of yourself in your mirror and analyze the costume of this self just as critically as if you were examining another woman's clothes. Compare your costume with one which pleased you or with one you especially disliked. Why did you like the one and not the other? It was because in the first case color, line and grouping of details was suited to the individual. In the second they were not."

REVIVAL OF THE SILHOUETTE BY MODERN GIRL

Color Introduced to Intensify Striking Effects

The old-fashioned silhouette which antedated the daguerreotype and its less expensive cousin the ambrotype for portraits other than those made with pencil or paint brush, has survived from generation to generation through the "knack" of an eccentric artist here and there. It has been left for a modern girl, however, to revive and recreate the art along original lines and achieve a vogue in poster arts. Her name is Miss Yvonne Donner and she is credited with only three months' study at Cooper Institute, and an additional three months at the Art Students' League drawing from life. But back of her is an ancestry of artists and sculptors who have endowed her with creative brains capable of turning out the wonderful things she does. She is not confined to black and white but departs from convention by the use of color, making the action she pictures so wonderfully tell the story so well that the absence of features is not missed.

SMART WRAPS AT SMALLER COST IS AIM

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Many of the evening wraps in the less expensive models fololw the details of the very costly wraps and almost equal them in appearance. One is always doubtful about the warmth of the evening wrap and unless it is heavily lined and interlined, it is dangerous to go from the fur coat to the velvet evening wrap. This year nearly all of the exclusive models are lined in ermine or expensive furs, so that only the woman with the fat pocketbook may possess one.

But recently a number of models have been shown that are lined in krimmer cloth, imitation of lamb, and in other imitations of fur which have warmth and are extremely clever in appearance. At night time one can scarcely detect the fact that they are imitations.

On the opening night of the Music Box Review a lovely wrap of this sort was worn by one of our smartest society buds. The cape itself was of deep wine colored velvet, while the lining was of gray krimmer cloth. A collar of real krimmer finished the neck.

The popularity of all white for evening was expressed in the costume which Mary Pickford wore at the Music Box Review. Her gown was one of those simple sleeveless little things of white velvet and emphasized her girlish charm. With it she wore a wrap of white brocaded with silver and collared with white ermine.

The Dolly sisters were gowned alike as usual and wore wide metal head bands wrapped about their heads, completely covering their foreheads. One of them wore a wrap of silver cloth collared in gray fur. The other wore a wrap of gold cloth, collared in brown.

A man isn't necessarily bashful because he declines to meet his obligations.

Article No. 9

Defensive Bids Over Suit Bids

A defensive bid is one made after opponents have bid, and is for the purpose of showing a suit, either to direct the lead in case opponents win final bid or to give partner information that will enable him to take the offensive if the strength of his hand warrants doing so. It never is possible to give as exact information with this type of bid as with an original bid, but it has certain definite requirements that should be followed as closely as possible. A defensive bid is one of two kinds: either over a suit bid by opponents, or over a No Trump bid by opponent on left. A suit bid over a No Trump bid on right never is interpreted as a defensive bid. Such a bid always is regarded as an offensive bid and will be so treated in the next article.

This particular article will deal only with defensive bids when opponents have bid a suit. Under such conditions the next player may do one of three things: first, bid a suit or No Trump; second, double; and third, pass, if hand doesn't justify a bid or double. The double will be treated in subsequent articles, so that only bids over a suit bid by opponents, the real defensive bids, will be covered in this article.

Suppose dealer bids one Club, second hand is justified in bidding one No Trump with slightly less strength than required of an original No Trump bid, provided hand contains a double stopper in the suit bid. This information to partner is so valuable that it more than compensates for the lack of strength in the other suits.

For example, suppose dealer has bid one Club and second player holds one of the following hands:

Hearts — J, 10, 7, 6
Clubs — K, J, 7
Diamonds — A, 2
Spades — Q, 9, 7, 6

Hearts — J, 4, 3
Clubs — A, J, 2
Diamonds — Q, J, 10, 7
Spades — Q, 10, 7

Hearts — 10, 8, 6
Clubs — K, Q, 7
Diamonds — A, Q, 6, 3
Spades — J, 10, 2

All of the above are sound defensive No Trump bids over an original Club bid.

Hands that do not contain a double stopper in the suit bid and are not strong enough for a double, may and often do contain a suit bid. Such bids are the typical defensive bids. Experience has shown that defensive bids of this type should not be bid unless the suit is at least a five card suit, and is headed by at least one and one-half tricks. For example, the following are justifiable defensive suit bids, supposing dealer has bid one Club:

Hearts — A, J, 10, 8, 7
Clubs — J, 7, 6
Diamonds — 10, 8
Spades — 9, 8, 7

Hearts — J, 7, 2
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — A, Q, 10, 8, 7
Spades — 10, 4, 2

Hearts — 10, 8, 7
Clubs — 7, 6
Diamonds — J, 7, 6
Spades — K, Q, 10, 7, 6

In all of the above examples the strength is confined to one suit only, but there are numberless other hands where the strength is distributed. In any case the requirement of one and one-half quick tricks always holds. These tricks may be distributed in two or more suits, but always with this restriction: that the suit bid must contain at least one-half quick trick. For example, the following hands are sound defensive bids over one Club bid by dealer:

Hearts — Q, J, 7, 6, 2
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — A, 3, 2
Spades — J, 7, 6

Hearts — 10, 8, 2
Clubs — 7, 6
Diamonds — K, J, 10, 7, 6
Spades — A, 5, 2

Hearts — 9, 8, 7
Clubs — 4, 2
Diamonds — K, 9, 7
Spades — A, 10, 6, 4, 2

Hearts — J, 4, 2
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — K, J, 9, 8, 7
Spades — K, Q, 7

Frequently, hands will contain one and one-half quick tricks and yet not be sound defensive bids, either because the suit itself doesn't contain sufficient strength, or because the distribution doesn't warrant it. For example, the following hands are not sound defensive bids, because the suit itself is too weak. Such hands should be bid on the second round if at all. On first round, after dealer's one Club, pass:

Hearts — J, 7, 4, 3, 2
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — A, 3, 2
Spades — K, 7, 6

Hearts — 10, 8
Clubs — J, 4, 2
Diamonds — A, J, 10
Spades — 10, 9, 8, 7, 4

Hearts — 9, 7, 2
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — Q, 7, 6, 4, 2
Spades — A, Q, 7

The following hands are not sound defensive bids because of the distribution. For example, suppose dealer bids one Club, and next bidder holds:

Hearts — A, 4, 2
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — K, 7, 6, 2
Spades — J, 4, 3, 2

Hearts — J, 10, 2
Clubs — 7, 6, 2
Diamonds — A, Q, 4
Spades — Q, 10, 9, 7

Such hands must be passed. When a defensive bid is made, partner is justified in making the following deductions: first, that suit bid contains at least five cards; second, that suit bid contains at least one-half quick trick; and third, that hand contains at least one and one-half quick tricks. Therefore, rather than deceive partner, pass and bid on the next round of bidding, if at all.

Another point to note in connection with defensive bids is that partner is never justified in placing more quick trick strength in defensive bidder's hand than one and one-half tricks. This point is very important. If the player who makes the defensive bid has more strength, he can easily show it on subsequent rounds of bidding, but until he does, only one and one-half quick tricks can be placed in his hand.

LOCAL MERCHANT TALKS ON FREAKS OF FASHION

Coat and Gown Supersedes Suit of One-time Popularity

According to Mr. Hatz of the Hatz Shop, suits are no longer in the mode, gowns and coats having superseded them in the preference of the fickle public. This has worked a hardship on the manufacturers of suits who, as he phrased it "have had plenty of luck but mostly bad luck." So great is the demand for coats in eastern trade centers it is almost impossible to get stock, he says. Never have the coats been more sumptuous or luxurious in mode and material than now.

In some other lines fashion shows variations also. In hosiery, as Mr. Hatz pointed out, there is quite a demand for a silk and wool stocking with fancy clocked pattern. Good sense is finally asserting itself and calling for the heavier foot covering to suit the season.

In gloves the call seems to be for the 8 and 12-button lengths as opposed to the 16-button glove of former popularity and this is true of both suedes and French kids the popular shades being black, white and biscuit color.

APPLE SALAD

Take six small, red apples, remove core with corer, and scrape out with spoon all the apple you can without spoiling shape of apple. Now with a sharp penknife fashion four-pointed pedals on each apple. Mix pulp of apples with chopped walnuts, chopped celery and mayonnaise. Fill apples and serve.

BAZAAR CHANCES HAVE SPECIAL VALUE

Provide Escape from Possible Dyspepsia and Accumulation

"Why do you buy 'chances' and waste your money instead of spending it for something tangible you could carry home," an observer heard a woman ask a friend at a bazaar who quite evidently was not of the gambling sort and was therefore a puzzle to the questioner.

"Because," the other replied placidly, "the chances I purchase will be worth as much or more to the bazaar as the sale of other things I might buy, and I am spared the trouble of carrying home a lot of junk which, though it might be useful to somebody else, I do not want. I consider the chances a special providence for people like me who want to help a cause without paying too much of a penalty."

Emerson School of Expression To Give Free Concert

A very interesting musical and dramatic program will be given under the auspices of the Emerson School of Self-Expression on Tuesday evening, December 5, at the Chamber of Commerce, 150 South Brand boulevard. Artists of national reputation have been secured and no doubt the program will be one of the best ones ever brought to Glendale. Some of the advanced pupils of the Emerson School will appear in a comedy playlette. There is no admission charge and all those interested to attend or to bring their friends may secure free admission tickets by applying to the Emerson School, 730-732 S. Glendale Avenue, or by calling Glendale 970-R.

FUNDAMENTALS IN PLANNING OF HOUSES

Proportions Play a Big Part in the Rooms and Exterior

The importance of scale in building, particularly in house building, is set forth with unusual clearness in an article by Phyllis Ackerman, Ph. D., in a recent number of "Arts and Decorations," wherein the familiar type of Florentine palace with its white plain walls, high, plain windows that convey impressive qualities of power, wealth, dignity and aristocratic reserve, is cited. The author admits no infallible rules can be laid down but declares that research and study have revealed that "a space exactly square or exactly twice as long as it is wide, or three times as long as wide, is never as pleasant as one in which the proportions are slightly over this ratio, or the width, for instance, a foot and a half more than half the length. Similarly it is never desirable to divide a rectangular space exactly into even parts.

"If the line of division runs exactly through the middle it seems to be no longer one rectangle but falls completely apart into two.

"These conclusions have a practical use. If it is a question of planning a house, the living room quite easily can be made 11 by 20 and it will be as a result an easier room to arrange and pleasanter.

"When the problem concerns the furnishing and decoration of a room, the author says: "The furniture must not look as if it filled the room. There must be open spaces, for human beings have to fit into the room too and they are restless creatures who want to move about. A room which gives the effect of impending locomotion is discomfiting and that which violates a fundamental instinct can never be beautiful.

"It is a common trick to put a large sofa entirely across the front of a fireplace and a large chair on either side so that a person entering the room can have access to it only by squeezing between them. This may make a cheerful hearth effect but it so cuts off the rest of the room that it practically kills it.

"Again a long, wide table is often stretched across an entire group of windows. There are interesting silhouette effects of ornaments on the table against the light to be obtained this way but on the whole it will not be successful because the table acts as a barrier and so is an irritant."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC CONDUCTOR SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FALL FROM TRAIN IN BURBANK YARD

C. W. Holden, Veteran of Road, Slips on Rock While Swinging Aboard Car and Is Struck by Battery Box

HE IS HALF SCALPED AND HIS BACK IS INJURED

Taken to Cottage Hospital in Automobile, His Injuries Were Diagnosed as Sufficiently Serious to Require Treatment for Several Days

C. W. Holden, conductor for the Southern Pacific Railway company, received serious injuries yesterday afternoon as he attempted to board a train in the Burbank yards. He was taken to the Cottage hospital and is suffering with a deep scalp wound, extending across the top of his head.

Holden was conductor on extra No. 23-55 out of Los Angeles. The train stopped at Burbank, and as it started, Holden slipped on a rock as he attempted to board a car. He fell beneath the car and was struck by a battery box, which lacerated his scalp and severely wrenched his back.

Holden has been conductor on the Southern Pacific for some years, and has been running extra out of Los Angeles. His injuries will confine him for a week or more, and he will not be able to return to work for several weeks.

HERE IAM! ASK ME!

The Glendale Daily Press has arranged to present a series of articles which begin today giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Verdugo Hills District Council, which includes the cities and communities of Glendale, Burbank, Roscoe, Sunland, Tujunga, La Crescenta, Montrose, Casa Verdugo and Eagle Rock. Look for these articles if you want to know the facts.

By HAROLD F. BENNER,
Scout Executive, Verdugo Hills District Council, B. S. A.

ALL KINDS OF BOYS

There are boys and boys. And then there are other boys. But the Boy Scout movement appeals to all of them in one way or another. It fits them all. It catches their own instinct whatever it may be and however it differs from that of other boys.

It hurls them into a current that goes up instead of down.

THE BOY THAT KNOWS TOO MUCH

First, there is the boy that is inclined to be a smart alec, who is stuck on himself. We saw one the other day whose eyes bulged out when he discovered that hundreds of boys he had kind of looked down on had learned to do a lot of things and to know a lot of other things as scouts that he didn't even have a speaking acquaintance with. Then he found out he didn't even know enough to be a "tenderfoot." Moreover, he learned that he never could know enough without some real hard work such as he had boasted of dodging in school.

For the first time in his young life he really felt ashamed of himself, and perhaps you have guessed that the one thing that this boy needed was to feel ashamed of himself and his methods. The way he hustled to turn over a new leaf without waiting for any adult's first of January justified the entire Boy Scout system.

You see scouting catches the boy from the angle of boys. The boy is not up against a comparison with his elders. He is with his peers. He is among his equals in age. And they are actually doing things that any boy is proud to be able to do. That is the picture that grips him.

The home cannot supply that picture. The Sunday school can't supply it. The public schools can't provide it. It is unique to scouting. Because it ties with what the boy thinks of as play rather than as work. Home and schools have a different appeal, a different task. It is no criticism of them that they can't supply the boy with this particular appeal any more than it would be that they have to go to the store to get things that they do not carry, and are not supposed to carry.

THE BOY THAT READS TOO MUCH

Do you know the boy that isolates himself from other boys, who gets off in the corner with a book? Always his nose in a book. Doesn't get exercise enough. Is indoors too much. Yet that boy is always reading. His mind is traveling with those that do things. But they are always things he can't do himself. Get that boy to reading the wonderful Boy Scout handbook. He will go to it from his own instinct. He will find himself reading about things that he can do.

That handbook will cost you 40 cents at the Boy Scout Headquarters. You never got so much for your boy for 40 cents in your life or his. It is a library in itself. It has the appeal for all kinds of boys of which we are telling. You will find your boy and his needs in it somewhere if you take the trouble to read it yourself.

More copies of this handbook have been sold than of any other single juvenile volume. The sales stand now at about a million and a quarter. The last 25 editions have been of one hundred thousand each or over, totaling in all, 1,765,400 books.

Quit that over-worry about your boy. If he wants to read, introduce him to the greatest boy book published.

(To be Continued in next Friday's Daily Press)

The Daily Press has frequently endorsed the Boy Scout movement, congratulated the leaders of it in the Verdugo Hills District on the remarkable development of the work here in the last year, and called the attention of our citizens to the local and national importance of it. The Daily Press desires to see Glendale and the Verdugo Hills District the first city and territory of its size in America in the work of the Boy Scouts. If any citizen has any question to ask it will be answered by the local Scout executive who is preparing these articles. Call for Harold Benner at Glendale 1640, or address the District office, 103½ South Brand boulevard, Glendale, Calif.

EASTERN THRACE IN SMOULDERING EMBERS

ADRIANPOLE (By Mail).—Eastern Thrace reseumbles an enchanted country which, by a magic word from some sinister chief of the underworld, suddenly lost its inhabitants while their dwellings were spared to serve as such witnesses of a once flourishing life which is now but a memory of the past.

Here and there a burning village, flaming like a huge torch, recalls with particular vigor the century old hatred and passions which divided the population of this unfortunate country into two hostile camps.

The landscape stretching along both sides of the moving train is dotted with completely deserted vilages. The Turkish population, naturally, remains in the country, beflagging their homes in the expectancy of the arrival of the Turkish nationalist gendarmerie,

As for the Greek civilians, they carried out an exodus the like of which is rare in World history, the assurances of the Allied and Turkish authoritis that the Greek population may safely stay in the country, are of no avail. The unfortunate refugees remember the systematic destruction of Western Asia Minor.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream. —Advertisement.

BLISTER RUST IS THREATENING STATE PINES

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 24—A hurriedly called conference of timber owners, government officials and forestry experts was in session here to discuss measures to be taken to combat the dreaded white pine "blister rust" which, despite all precautions has finally reached the great forests of the Pacific Northwest.

Originally introduced into the northeastern states of the United States from Europe by the importation of diseased white pine trees, the disease has ravaged the forests of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Strict quarantine measures, which were designed, by prohibiting the importation of currants and gooseberries, "hosts" of the germ of the "rust," by banning the shipment of these berries from the east to states west of the Mississippi valley, to restrict the spread of the disease, have proved unavailing.

The disease when it attacks a young tree rapidly causes its death. In the case of older trees, the tree may survive a few years, but its ultimate death is inevitable.

According to the National Lumber-Manufacturers' association, the presence of the disease in the Northwestern forests menaces timber worth $228,000,000 on the stump, and five or six times as much to the tributary population which lives off the lumbering industry. The whole future of lumbering and its dependent industries. Northwest's greatest industries are threatened and pending plans for reforestation are imperilled.

Sugar pines in Idaho, California and Oregon, it is feared are also subject to the present menace. If both are attacked, over 77 billion feet of the existing 98 billion feet of white pine in the whole United States will be menaced with rapid extinction.

No other lumbering districts will be able to compete with the wholesale unloading of Idaho pine, it is said. Aside from this problem of Idaho, the fate of other districts menaced by the "rust" is also to be decided. The present conference therefore, it is believed, will have a decisive influence on the future of the Pacific coast pine forests and the pine lumber industry.

PREPARE FOR THE WET PAVEMENTS, SAYS HE

"Be prepared for the wet weather," says E. V. Jellison, of the Jellison Motor Company, 1004-6 S. Brand boulevard. "The best way to be ready for the rain is to equip your car with Keaton Non-skids. You cannot help but be safe if you have a Keaton on every wheel. The new Keaton with its broad, flattened tread is the best non-skid on the market. The non-skid feature is guaranteed for the life of the tire—something that is new with tires.

"Because life is valuable, Keaton Non-skids are invaluable."

New Valley to Coast Road Will Be Rushed

WASCO, Nov. 24.—The sixteen-foot, oil macadam highway to extend between Lost Hills and Paso Robles is planned to be constructed by the earliest possible time. Work has now begun on a spur extending from the Santa Fe at Wasco, which will be used to transfer the road materials to the construction camp. Sixty-five thousand tons of prepared rock will be shipped from Fresno, of which sixteen carloads are to be unloaded per day. The road will cost the state approximately $750,000.

It will open a new route to the coast for the San Joaquin Valley and it is contended that it will be the most popular, owing to the shorter distance.

A very absent-minded man was dining out. "My daughter, you know," said his hostess, "married a struggling man. Life has been one long struggle for them, too, ever since."

"Perhaps he'll get away one day," answered the absent-minded man.

Truths in Epigram

THE VERY OLD

Lafayette Skinner has just arrived in southern California. He came by automobile from the Puget Sound country. He selected this section because he regarded it as admirably adapted to the process of growing old gracefully. Mr. Skinner is 98, and expects to have a long time in which to test the climatic advantages of his chosen habitat.

There is always much of interest in relation to the extremely aged. One thinks with a sort of awe of the vast experiences that must have marked a life so far extended beyond the span regarded as normal. There is sometimes a feeling of pity, in thinking how the man in his nineties must look back, to see his lengthened path hedged by the graves of most all the people he had known. There is sympathy for the old who has come a long way and at the end finds neither plenty nor contentment.

Theories concerning old age are various, and for the great part, useless. The one known method of attaining a multitude of years is to be born with a constitution able to withstand the hard knocks, and the more subtle, but inevitable, wear and tear. Old age is not a direct inheritance. The chances are that the parents of the centenarian never approached the mark later set by him, and that his children will fail to do so. Mr. Skinner has been the father of eleven. Of these there is a solitary survivor.

Ninety-eight, to a person still able to appreciate delightful surroundings, is a pleasing and restful period. Mr. Skinner has come to the right spot. Persons of his type flourish here. By seeking out southern California he shows that he enjoys life enough to desire to prolong it.

GREAT POWERS UNITED

To observe that once more England and France are working with single purpose to produce order in the Near East is a very uplifting spectacle. It gives promise of accomplishment. The two powers not only had been drifting apart, but their activities had served to nullify each other. There was definite prospect of giving Turkey a status. It was an uncertain and menacing entity, its erratic course depending on the ever changing temper of Islam. Neither was progress being made as to settlement with Germany. Perhaps Germany is unable to pay reparation, but if so the fact should have been known long before now. In this case some basis of compromise might have been reached.

The change of policy is of mighty portent. In an instant it had erected the Anglo-French intente into a powerful authority, whereas it had been nothing. With these two powers in close co-operation, there apparently is small reason to fear either that the Turk will get out of bounds, Russia have a dominant voice in the settlement of Dardanelles matters, or Germany dawdle along reluctant to make a demonstration as to its real financial capacity. As an immediate effect, Turkey will be informed as to its conduct, and will have to obey. Its theory that it could lay down the law to Europe is destined to receive a decisive jar. Among other things that will be required of it will be payment for damages to the property of allied citizens. Christian minorities will be protected. The straits will be kept open, not subject to Turkish, and consequently to Russian domination. Altogether, there is a far more cheerful outlook than could have been discerned only a few days ago.

BORDER CRIMES

Two Americans are said to have been lured into Mexico, taken on an automobile ride and then robbed and murdered. Similar episodes occur on this side of the border every day. Murders are so common as to be regarded largely as local incidents. For a little while the accounts of them constitute news, and then there is fresh news of similar type. Americans, however, take it exceedingly ill when a countryman visiting on alien territory falls victim to the criminals permitted to flourish there. The event takes on all the color of an international outrage. There is likely to be diplomatic correspondence, animated while it lasts, but in the end amounting to nothing. It is to be hoped that in this instance, the assassins shall be caught and puhished. If caught they are likely to be punished, an outcome that would not be reckoned a certainty had the whole affair been reversed, the victims Mexicans, and the crime committed on American soil.

While this matter is being looked into, the Mexican authorities will have opportunity to present counter complaints. The statement is made unofficially, and perhaps officially also, that many Mexicans are killed by Americans along the border. There are places in Texas, for example, where the valuation placed on the life of a Mexican is said to be extremely low. As a matter of plain fact, the murder of a Mexican is a crime precisely as grave as the murder of an American.

With the investigation of the recent double crime, there will be a chance to make the research sweeping and thorough. Natives of either country should be permitted to enter the other on legitimate business without running the risk of being killed, robbed, or in any other manner subjected to violence.

A GREAT VISITOR

The presence of Georges Clemenceau means that one of the great figures of the generation has elected to visit the people of the United States. It may be taken for granted that he has a message to deliver. His heart is bound up in devotion to France. He sees the problems his native land is facing. He looks to the future with some misgiving, and yet without fear. He realizes that there must be a unity of purpose among the powers. Unless there should come about some great change in the apparent destiny of France, that land, as a separate social unit, is likely to be but a memory, a noble page in history. He would save it, if to save it with honor is possible. Such is his hope and desire.

Clemenceau is an extraordinary personage. He carries lightly the burden of his more than four score years, and yet doubtless he realizes that for him the remaining period of active endeavor must be short. Therefore he is crowding all the work possible into the day. His brain is active, his eye keen, his body strong. New York editors who were guests at a luncheon given in his honor were deeply impressed by his earnestness and the fervor of his sincerity. He is here for the purpose of promoting international unity. The plan is not new. It has stirred the minds of many, but in Clemenceau it has an advocate of peculiar potency. If anybody can awaken the common conscience, and inspire effort for the common good, the task seems to belong to this truly grand old man of France.

It is said that a certain bill now before congress, will, if passed, deprive the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico of their lands. Probably this is true. Artists and writers familiar with the region and the tribe, object, but their protests are not likely to count. If the land is desirable, and the whites want it, the matter is about as good as settled, justice, of course being left out of consideration.

Commerce and World Government

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The one outstanding conclusion in the mind of that portion of the world which thinks was that the Great War proved the absolute necessity of some sort of world government.

Dr. Frank Crane.

Mankind is a unity, and all traditional nationalisms must bend sufficiently to adapt themselves to this unity.

This does not mean a superstate or a wiping out of nations. It means the co-operation of nations for the purpose of saving the waste of war.

The attempt to lead at once to the fulfilment of this logic by a political League of Nations was perhaps too sudden. The slow-moving mind of the world was not ready for it. It particularly awakened the hostility of all reactionaries. And reactionaries are vastly more fanatical than reformers.

The League of Nations, therefore, limps a bit. It will probably come on strong in the next generation, as the law of progress usually requires a new generation to fully grasp a great constructive idea. The only dependable way Nature has of getting rid of die-hards is through the graveyard.

And meanwhile, however, the great world unity idea is going forward. It has to. Destiny is behind it and pushing it.

Plans have just been perfected by the International Chamber of Commerce for the establishment of a new International Court of Arbitration for the settlement of commercial disputes between different countries.

This tribunal is the result of several years of study and experiment by the business men of the world.

Twenty-eight nations, including the United States, will have representatives in this court.

Perhaps, after all, this is the true road to our goal. For the real life of the human race is not political; it is economic. People are not universally engaged in politics. Only a small portion of the population is political-minded, and this portion is usually of inferior quality.

So far the politicians have managed the affairs of the world in such a way as to incur enormous waste by bringing about periodic states of war.

The best minds of the race are engaged in business. That is, they are trying to make a living and to help others to live. Their prosperity is conditioned upon the prosperity of the masses, and not on disaster to the masses, as is the case with dynasties and political plotters.

It is therefore a hopeful sign to see the business brains of the world getting together and learning to think in terms of humanity and not in terms of nationalism.

Commerce, business, art, literature, and religion—all these are forces that make toward world unity. In time they will have their way.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

"MR. PROHACK"
By Arnold Bennett

Following are some comments on Arnold Bennett's style as observed during a reading of his interesting novel, "Mr. Prohack."

No Possessive Before Gerund

Page 67: ". . . to think of the girl making a fool of herself . . ."

Page 155: ". . . he could not stomach the notion of Charlie cynically watching his infant steps . . ."

Page 27: "On it being pointed out to Mr. Prohack . . ."

Page 248: "This is the first I've heard of anybody being upset about me!"

Page 227: ". . . and the spectacle of Mr. Softly Bishop biting off more than he could chew, of Mr. Softly Bishop being drawn to his doom . . ."

Page 248: ". . . about the newsboy being late . . ."

Page 281: ". . . you can read of them getting married that day . . ."

Note: According to the rules of grammar each of the foregoing black face words should have been in the possessive case. In this novel Mr. Bennett unquestionably has deliberately defied the rule that requires a possessive before a gerund, and he has done this even in the case of the personal pronouns, it and them.

Superfluous "A"

Page 172: ". . . it seemed to be no sort of a house . . ."

"As If" and "As Though"

Both locutations are used throughout the book.

An Error

Page 219: "He soothed her, as none but he could . . ."

Note: But as employed in the foregoing sentence is a preposition and should be followed by the objective case. The but in question is equivalent to except, and one would not say except he. Mr. Bennett did not in the following (page 248): "I thought that everybody except me (on a parallel with him) had frogotten . . ." The sentence might have read: I thought that everybody but me . . .

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

If you are walking along the highway of sure and steady gait, you can hit a good many little stones and clods without upsetting.

Or being thrown from your balance.

Because your equilibrium is pretty safe and sure.

* * *

If you are walking at a high rate of speed, your equilibrium is less stable.

And it takes less to throw you from balance.

Because the more rapidly you progress the less stable is your equilibrium.

Your center of gravity is more likely to be disturbed the more rapidly you propel yourself.

* * *

Then if you run along the highway at a furious pace, it takes only a little clod or stone or slippery place to throw you from your equilibrium.

You are easily thrown from balance.

And you are sprawled in the mud or the dust as the case may be.

* * *

A train running at a low rate of speed may strike an obstruction on the track and pass over it easily and without accident.

A train running at sixty miles an hour striking an obstruction will probably leave the rails and turn over into the ditch.

Because of the loss of equilibrium.

* * *

When your motor car is running fifty miles an hour and you seek suddenly to change its direction, you have an immediate conflict of opposing forces.

There is the force that is driving you straight ahead.

And there is the applied force that would turn you to one side.

And your motor car will seek probably a compromise between the two forces.

Which results in loss of equilibrium and upset.

* * *

There is no danger in traveling a known highway at fifty miles an hour—if everything goes right.

But the fact is that everything does not always go right.

There may be an obstruction in the road.

A blow out.

The fracture of a part.

And then it is that speed is disastrous.

* * *

A motor car traveling on a highway at sixty miles an hour is traveling at the rate of 5280 feet a minute.

That is about ninety feet a second.

If there is an obstruction that looms suddenly ninety feet before you, you have just a second to avoid it.

* * *

If you will say tick, tick, tick, just about as rapidly as you would utter the words casually, you will have passed a second of time.

So here is a motor car.

Here is an obstruction or a bad place in the road or a thing to be avoided.

Tick-tick-tick!

You have reached the place at sixty miles an hour.

* * *

The curse of the roads and the cause of death and maiming is the mania for speed.

Forty, fifty, sixty miles an hour.

A train travels on a prepared track.

With a right of way.

A motorist travels on an uneven highway with no right of way.

Cars dodging here, there and everywhere.

* * *

The wonder is not that the daily accident record lists dozens of dead and injured.

The wonder is that the number is not greater.

And the number will grow greater till speed grows less.

There are many violations of traffic laws.

But the most pernicious is speed.

* * *

The courts can stop the speed maniacs if they will.

Songs of the Poets

The Reason—By James Oppenheim (1882——)

Oh, hark the pulses of the night,
The crickets hidden in the field,
That beat out music of delight
Till summoned dawn stands half revealed!

Oh, mark above the bearded corn
And the green wheat and bending rye,
Tuned to the earth, and calling morn,
The stars vibrating in the sky!

And know, divided soul of me,
Here in the meadow, sweet in speech,
This perfect night could never be
Were we not mated each to each.

Vaccine Throat Spray May Banish Pneumonia

It may soon be possible to spray your throat and so become immune to pneumonia infection, Dr. Russell L. Cecil and Gustav L. Steffen of the hygienic laboratory of the United States public health service, working at Bellevue hospital in New York, have completed experiments on monkeys that suggest that considerable immunity against virulent pneumonia can be obtained by the mere spraying of the throat with pneumococcus vaccine.

Monkeys can be completely protected against pneumonia by injections of the vaccine under the skin, and recent tests proved that injecting the vaccine directly into the trachea or windpipe, leading from larynx to lungs, is just as completely effective. Although throat spraying did not produce complete immunity in the case of monkeys, the bacteriologists believe that it may prove effective when used on a human being. They found that monkeys sprayed closed the opening into the windpipe and the vaccine did not get a fair chance to act. The human trachea could easily be reached by the spray and immunity produced, Dr. Cecil believes.

Protection against pneumonia by spraying or injection of vaccine into the windpipe probably extends only as far as the cells that would be first attached by the microbes producing pneumonia, as tests indicate that a protective substance is not formed in the blood as in the case of smallpox or similar immunization. Further tests to amplify the experimental data and perfect the methods are to be undertaken in order that practical use of protection against pneumonia can be achieved at the earliest possible time and the greatest possible safety.

During the war Dr. Cecil and collaborators tested the prophylactic value of pneumococcus vaccine on recruits in the United States army and found that the cases of pneumonia were few in the organizations that were treated with vaccine injections under the skin. There were some severe reactions at the time of the inoculations, however, and further research was thought advisable before active immunization against pneumonia would be practical in civil life. For this reason experiments leading to the spraying method were undertaken.

The vaccine used consists of a salt solution suspension of killed pneumococci, the microbes that produce pneumonia. As many as 120,000,000,000 pneumococci are used in a single vaccination experiment.

In 1920 pneumonia was responsible for 137.3 deaths out of every 100,000 people in the United States, and in fatality it was outranked by only tuberculosis and organic heart disease. In 1918, when influenza deaths mounted to the high total of 300.8 per 100,000, frequent pneumonia as an after effect caused a pneumonia death rate in that year of 286.2.

Through the use of pneumococcus vaccine and further experimentation it is probable that these high rates will be greatly reduced when the vaccination against pneumonia is practiced widely. Eventually it may even be possible to control this respiratory disease as completely as smallpox, public health experts believe.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

FAITH IN AMERICA
[Fall River News]

The New Republic asks: "Has America's faith in America collapsed?" And it undertakes to answer its own query in a way to suit the young poseurs and would-be iconoclasts who read it, who write for it and who like to think that they believe all their own nonsense.

The News does not for a moment believe that America's faith in America has collapsed.

Before we entered the war there were those who told us that all we cared for was gold. There were those who told us that we did not dare to stop making money out of Europe's misery and enter the fight against the German peril.

But we entered.

We sent the flower of our youth into the hell of Europe. We sent our best to die, to be wounded, to crawl with their bellies gaping open along the shot-torn fields until they died in misery. We sent our best to die after nights and days in No Man's Land, athirst and aflame with agony. We at home deprived ourselves of many things, gave until it hurt. We fought the war with our souls as much as with shot and shell.

We have faith in America. We have always had faith in America. When that faith collapses America will collapse with it.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Chinese are very thorough. They are industrious. Given a task they do not shrik any part of it. They even are the most admirable pirates known. Were it not for Chinese piracy, the calling would be about extinct. Thus the novelist would lose a theme he prizes highly, and the correspondent, writing from Chinese waters, be sadly lacking in the atmosphere that renders his work attractive.

HENRY JAMES

The latest group of Chinese pirates took a ship by the simple method of sailing as passengers. At the psychological moment, probably just beyond the three-mile limit, they threw off whatever disguise they had employed, declared themselves the real thing in the pirate line, and proceeded to take what they wanted. They were not a murderous lot, this probably due to the fact that they were commanded by a person vaguely described as a young lady. The term in all likelihood is not exactly fitting, for the training of a young lady does not impel her to lead a band of pirates. Besides, a genuine pirate would feel himself hampered by such presence. In the good old story book, the pirate takes his cutlas in his teeth, swarms up the sides, and really does not begin to enjoy himself until the scuppers run red. He could not prize his booty unless he had to fight for it.

The feminine influence pervades most walks of life. Nobody supposed it would get to the walk whereon the pirate picks his way among the victims of his flashing blade.

Chicago police are dealing with two women of peculiarly loathsome type, and are regretful that the severest penalty is hanging. These women seem to have poisoned a number of persons, being wishful to collect the insurance. As a rule they selected their husbands, but in the absence of a husband, any one to whom a policy could be attached, served the purpose.

Such creatures as these do not appear more than a few times in a generation.

Quite unaware of it at the time, a Los Angeles policeman shot an unoffending citizen who chanced to be passing the point at which an attempt was being made to arrest automobile thieves. The incident was deplorable, and doubtless the regret of the policeman will be the keenest. But the blame for the killing rests upon the thieves.

If such thieves were adequately punished, it is probable that they would cease to operate. They are not so punished. The chances are that if sent to prison for a short term of years, they will be released by the prison authorities, and be again engaged in crime before the termination of the periods they ought to be serving.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

We had an argument—Doc Henneberry and I—about Bonar Law. Neither of us knows Mr. Law, of course. It makes no difference to us whether he finishes politically in Westminster Abbey or the Potter's Field. But we had our ideas.

"He was too honest," I said. "You'll see. You cannot afford to be too honest in this world. He said to the people of England:

"'Lots of people do not know what is the matter with England.' Then he paused a moment. 'I do not know myself,' said he."

I said that would hurt Bonar Law. It will forever be used against him. We want our politicians to pretend to be supermen. We know they are not, of course. In our inner hearts we know they are no better than most of us, except that they are willing to work at the job of governing, and some of the rest of us are not willing even to vote at it. I still think I am right. As a matter of political strategy, Bonar Law should have said:

"I know just what is the matter with England. And I shall put it right."

That way he would have engaged the respect and admiration of the people who do not know what is wrong. Instead of which he admitted in advance that he could do no more than guess at the ills and the remedies. An honest man might talk that way, but a good politician never will. And the better politician a man is the longer he stays in office. But Doc Henneberry says I am not only wrong, but a time-server and a Laodicean, whatever that is.

"It pays to be honest," said he. "Always."

Then he told of Jimmy Wilkins, who opened a garage and told every one that all he knew about a car was how to wash it and fill it.

"But I'm strong," he said. "I'll do whatever you tell me to do. And I'll only charge what the service is worth."

It is true that Jimmy Wilkins now owns the largest garage in town, and knows more about the inside of a car than Henry Ford, and is the squarest shooter who ever picked up a pipe-wrench. But I maintain that the cases of Jimmy Wilkins and Bonar Law are widely different. We all enjoy finding an honest man in a garage. It's unexpected, for one thing. But I'm not so sure that we enjoy an honest politician.

FURUSETH AND VOLSTEAD PUT CRIMP OUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—San Francisco's waterfront still maintains in many outward aspects its old time picturesqueness, but its old time risks and hazards to the sailoring man are gone thanks to Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seaman's Union.

Furuseth's "Americanized merchant ships" bill of a few years ago put the "crimp" out of business.

Then Mr. Volstead's prohibition enforcement act came along and dealt another blow by knocking out the waterfront saloon.

The waterfront saloon was the "crimp's" hangout. It was there that he mixed with the seafaring men just in from the voyage, helping them spend their money "setting up" a few himself and lauding their intention to stay on land for a long time.

When the seafaring man was sufficiently "far gone" from celebrating, a few drops of "knock-out" were put in a drink by the bartender and when the victim next woke up, it was with a terrible headache, in a foul bunk, and with a ship pitching and rolling under his him.

Instead of spending a few days on land as he had planned he found himself at sea bound for Singapore, or Callao, or Sidney.

When sufficiently recovered he was fed and called before the captain, who gave him the option of signing on as a regular member of the crew, or being put to work as a stowaway.

Broke, without clothing, and with the prospect of the voyage, he usually signed on and was given a new outfit. The Captain's story was that he had come aboard drunk and had failed to get off when the ship sailed.

Furuseth's shipping bill, now law, automatically penalizes captain and company in case of a "crimped" sailor being found aboard, and his claims substantiated. The fine is heavy and hence has put a stop to the practice.

The docks and the cobbled embarcadero along the waterfront still give the same general aspect. And the ancient dilapidated "Old Sailors' Home" near Rincon Hill on Harrison street, a landmark for decades, is still there, with its inmates tottering about in cast-off clothes of the sea, tapping their canes, and looking out over the bay with old-time spy-glasses.

But the industrial district is rapidly crowding down along the water front and land that still is the site of decayed hotels is for the most part, merely being held pending a fat offer for it as a warehouse or factory site.

Two Distinct Bodies in Human Being?

Dr. W. S. Keech

NERVOUS NATIONS

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Handicaps of Childhood," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)

One of the surest signs of nervousness in an individual is a growing irritability.

For little reason, or no reason at all, the nervous individual loses control of his temper. Let his desires be crossed in any way, he flares up in a rage. Also he is inclined to see grievances where no grievances exist.

This singular irritability and suspiciousness is equally a sign of nervousness in nations.

When you find a nation, through its various mediums of public utterance, inveighing continually against other nations, when you find it forever lamenting that other nations are intriguing against it, and when you find it on a plea of self-defense urging policies calculated to embroil it with other nations, you may rest assured that nation is in a highly nervous state.

So, too, it is a sign of national nervousness when a nation, accounting itself civilized, tolerates within its borders any widespread occurrence of brutalities and outrages characteristic of the unrestrained lust and violence of cave men.

Nervous individuals, as every medical psychologist is aware, often show a distinct tendency to revert to the cave men's modes of thinking and doing. This is a result of loss of control, permitting the emergence of instincts and impulses inherited from remote forbears, but ordinarily held in check.

And, it is noteworthy, the swing-back may be, not to brutalities, but to primitive standards of judgment as regards the purposes of life, literary values, aesthetic ideals, etc. I am reminded in this connection of Stewart Paton's comment on futurist art:

"The ultra-moderns are really pre-primitives. This is brought out if we compare the idols and images of savage races with the compositions of the futurist school of sculptors or painters.

"That the artist who produces these creations is often sincere does not alter this fact; the dark sub-cellar abode at once of simplicities and deformities exists in all of us.

"The futurist art expresses, not intellectual superiority, but very primitive emotion, and illustrates a reversion to ideas and ideals of the Stone Age."

If, then, futurist art becomes the mode, national as well as individual nervousness stands revealed. It is, indeed, a sign of national nervousness if people flock to futurist exhibitions "merely out of curiosity."

To be constantly seeking new sensations is another characteristic nervous symptom. Futurism offers a new sensation, so the nervous rush to it, just as they rush to "something new" in the opera, the ballet, or the play. When they rush so numerously that the quest of the new—and particularly the new that is bizarre—may be described as a national trait, then again you have an unmistakable sign that the nation is truly in a nervous stte.

These hints I commend to all whose business it is—as statesmen, educators, preachers, publicists—to cooperate in maintaining a national nerve control. They cannot too alertly watch for indications that this control is weakening, or too earnestly labor to reestablish it.

For just as nervousness may bring indescribable suffering to individuals, so may it bring dire disaster to nations. A fact which history has stressed for us again and agaain—not least in the recent downfall of Germany.

The Once Over

CREDIT COLUMBUS WITH AN ERROR

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Columbus made the mistake of his life when he discovered America. Take it on the words of Temps, a French newspaper, which comes out with a front-page charge that America, so far as benefits to civilization are concerned, is a bust.

• • •

The United States is a terrible flivver, it seems, except during back-to-the-wall periods in European wars. So far as Europe is concerned, America should be set in a cool, dry place, marked "FOR USE ONLY IN AN EMERGENCY."

• • •

The only contributions of America to the world were cocktails, strong tobacco and the ingredients for cosmetics, according to Temps. If the United States had known this it would have responded to the French pleas for war loans by getting its bankers to send over 50,000,000 plugs of tobacco, 350,000,000 boxes of face powder and all the Manhattan cocktails the allied armies could drink.

• • •

The records show that at no time during the war did a hysterical plea for any of these things come from France, but that, strangely enough, two commodities were asked which the French now deny America ever produced: Men and mazuma.

• • •

Chris would have done the world a favor if, upon sighting America, he had decided to "leave it lay." He should have put his Spanish hack into reverse, returned to Queen Isabella and reported to the dear lady:

"I'm very sorry, queeny, but I didn't get what I was sent for. I took a good look at America and can assure you it is a large and entirely new tract of land which has been overlooked even by the leading real estate operators. It is very attractive to look at and has possibilities, but you can't tell what the darn thing may grow up to be. That's the trouble with these new countries."

"What!" Isabella should have thundered, swallowing a jeweled umbrella handle in her indignation. "You mean to tell me you did not get the country for me! You stand there munching a garlic sandwich calmly admitting you did not put even a lien on the property!"

"Don't get excited, Bella!" Columbo should have replied, "I am the seventh son of a Seventh avenue sun-dodger and I no sooner took one slant at America and felt its bumps than I could see it would give the world the recipes for Manhattan and Bronx cocktails, grow the ingredients for cosmetics, and produce 5-cent cigars, ambassadors like Colonel Harvey, strawberry shortcake, New England boiled dinners, William J. Bryan, Pussyfoot Johnson, phonographs, jazz bands, fried oysters, the one-two punch, New Brunswick, Senator Lodge, and long time loans."

• • •

Isabella: "Stop!"

Columbus: "What?"

Isabella (pointing to nearest exit): "Go!"

Columbus: "You talk like a traffic sign, Bell. I insist upon continuing. I realized that the cocktails and the cosmetics and the Harveys might be little harm, but I knew that the one-two punch and long time loans would lead to much trouble. I saw clearly that this America, being young and healthy, would be appealed to for both the first time one European power started throwing another out of the saloons. And then I realized America would not only be stuck for the loans, but called a big bum. And that, fair lady of the Spanish ptomaine, is something I would ALLOW NO CHILD OF MINE TO COME TO!"

• • •

Isabella: "Well, varmint, what did you do?"

Columbus: "I'll tell you, Izza, if you promise not to be cross with me."

Isabella: "Go on. What did you do with this fair country?"

Columbus: "I PUT A BIG SIGN ON IT READING 'OPENED BY MISTAKE,' and left it."

Do Not Be Deceived

An oven with no bottom and only skeleton linings will heat instantly, but requires a steady flow of gas to keep it hot.

Light Weight Ovens Cool Off Quickly, and Their Life Is Short

The oven of this Reliable Angliron Gas Range is lined throughout with aluminum alloy metal. On account of this heat-retaining feature, it will maintain a certain degree of heat, with less consumption of gas.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED! Why experiment with old ideas tried out and discarded by stove manufacturers years ago. We can show you RELIABLE GAS RANGES in Glendale which have been giving more than twenty years of continuous satisfaction.

A SONG OF THANKFULNESS

For friends to love,
For bread to share,
For skies above,
For flowers so fair,
For grain to reap,
For sunny days,
For night to sleep,
For songs of praise,
I thank thee, Lord.

For willing feet
Set toward the goal,
For storms that beat
Upon my soul
And bid me fight
My way along,
For throned Right
And vanquished Wrong,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For promise new
With each new day,
For tasks to do,
For chance to stray
By hill and wood
Sometime and be
In solitude
Of soul with Thee,
I thank Thee, Lord.

For sun and rain,
For shine and shower,
For joy and pain
And all the dower
Of gifts from Thee
By Thy wise plan
To strengthen me
And make a man,
I thank Thee, Lord.
